

Inspired EC

Early Childhood Consultancy

ARE PROUDLY HOSTING

... In Harvey, WA ...

A FULL DAY WORKSHOP

The DO Approach to PLAYING:
Play, learning and the reality of children's play with UK PLAY EXPERT

Marc Armitage

<http://www.marc-armitage.eu>

Supported by

<http://www.playbasedlearning.com.au>

www.inspiredec.com

"Play is what children and young people do - not what we think they do or even what we want them to do. So, if we want to truly understand play we need to understand what our children do when we are not around."
Marc Armitage

Harvey, WA

Wednesday July 24th 2013

9.30am—3.30pm

Lunch & Refreshments included

Total cost $177.00pp

Registration forms are available from bookings@inspiredec.com

What the day explores.

The day introduces a way of working called 'The Do Approach'. This is based on a research and observation led exploration of what and how children play naturally and without adult involvement. It then asks how this knowledge can be applied to our way of work as a form of 'best practice'

Specifically, the day covers:

- Defining 'play-led' as different to 'child-led'.
- Unpacking the phrase 'Learning through Play'
- The importance of observation
- What do we know about playing and moving?
- What do we know about playing and sitting?

